PIEA President's Letter

Dear Friends,

Marcia Rubenstein

After many years of teaching, I have found a new energy by connecting with colleagues through PIEA. Imagine having new friends with whom you immediately have something in common: a passion for teaching and for photography. This is what belonging to PIEA is all about.

New to the board last year, I have been discovering all the benefits PIEA has developed for its members. I would hope you are all aware of them, but here is a short list to remind you.

- PIEA offers the opportunity to show your own work, either by entering the annual contest or by bringing your work to the PIEA conference to present to your colleagues.
- PIEA members now have the opportunity to be published in the PIEA Journal for Photography Education.
- There are opportunities to broaden your teaching horizons by sharing with teachers from around the world, either through the website or, again, at the annual conference.
- One of the most fun opportunities is to show and share your students' work as the contest show travels throughout the globe.

I have been lucky to work within the photographic-rich community of Brooks Institute, among colleagues who inspire me and challenge me to be a better teacher. Speaking with many of you at the PIEA Education Conference, I realized you may work in high schools or colleges in which you don't have this same experience. When it is necessary to discuss curriculum and assignments, there may be no one with which to collaborate. The greatest benefit of PIEA membership is we all have the opportunity to learn from each other and enrich our teaching environment.

As is true of any organization, PIEA grows and develops along with its members. Your active participation is critically important to the health of PIEA. Here are some accomplishments of the last year, and some challenges and plans for the upcoming one.

1. In the past year, PIEA has published its first online PIEA Journal for Photography Education. Under the guidance of Dr. Janet Bonsall, this journal will be an ongoing publication dedicated to serving educators in support of teaching and research related to photographic imaging education. Submissions are currently being accepted. Details are available on the website, or email journaleditor@pieapma.org with the words "Journal Submission" in the subject line.

2. The board has voted to set up a new award this year, Educator of the Year. This award will honor outstanding educators who have shown a commitment to the teaching of photography. Winners will be invited to attend the PIEA Education Conference with expenses paid. Nominations can be made by students (current or former), colleagues, or self-nomination. Look for more information coming up on the PIEA website.

3. Thanks to a new design on the PIEA website, we have some new links in the member's area. In the discussion forum, members can post and view example assignments, syllabi, and other materials. There are also areas for posting links to your website, job announcements, and more. Of course, these areas need to be populated by all of our members' content. I am looking forward to seeing content that represents our diverse membership – high schools, universities, and various countries.

4. We have some great plans in the works for the 2011 conference in Las Vegas. We will be spending a full day at the College of Southern Nevada with workshops for educators and students. The Photo Safari and Evening with an Artist events also will take place. If you are interested in presenting at the conference or have any input to give about the content, please contact us through the website.

5. PIEA faces the challenge of letting educators know about the organization and what the benefits of membership are. We are looking for any suggestions you might have on how to do this. Individually, you can help spread the word by asking your colleagues if they have heard of PIEA and persuading them to join. As we all plan for the next conference in Las Vegas in 2011, think about bringing a friend with you.

I look forward to a year of sharing opportunities and professional growth with all of you.
